Your property taxes are going up again

Soda tax nixed in marathon day of Council meetings, political wrangling ◗ For second straight year, Nutter unable to find support ◗ Property taxes went up double digits last year

▶ Kenney was frustrated with the process, saying Nutter was "playing games" throughout the morning and afternoon.

Political games

As he was leaving Council chambers around 4:30 p.m., Councilman James Kenney said that, "If the mayor wasn't playing games, we'd be home by now."

This was around the same time Nutter had a press availability with reporters covering the hearings. At the time, Nutter wasn't sure what would be the outcome — whether Council would support a property tax hike or the soda tax. But he made clear that he still preferred the soda tax legislation. In the end, beverage industry lobbyists won again and property owners will bear a larger share of the burden for educating Philadelphia schoolchildren.

After a marathon session, City Council gave preliminary approval to a 3.85 percent increase in the school district portion of the property tax by a 11-6 vote. Combined with an increase in parking meter rates and $10 million from the city's fund balance, the School District of Philadelphia will receive $53 million in additional funding. Council is expected to take a final vote next Thursday.

"There were only three options. ... The only one that we could get a consensus of nine votes was with the real estate tax."

For the second straight year, a proposed tax on sugar-sweetened beverages fell short. With the infusion of cash, the district plans to restore school bus service, maintain class sizes for grades K-5, and restore the Bright Futures program in early childhood education. The district is still counting on an additional $57 million from the state to help close a $629 million shortfall.

"I think that ultimately the students of this city are the beneficiaries of a lot of hard work and effort by our administration and certainly City Council," Nutter said last night following the vote.

Superintendent Arlene Ackerman also said she was happy with the outcome, despite only getting about half of the $110 million the district sought.

"When we came here [yesterday] morning we had zero dollars," Ackerman said. "We're leaving with $53 million and I'm happy about that."

Short time on the run for bank robbers

Trio allegedly behind a holdup in Northeast PNC Bank made it only a few blocks before getting nabbed

Three men are in custody for an alleged armed robbery at a bank in the Northeast yesterday.

Authorities said the trio entered the PNC bank on Bustleton Avenue near Cottman at 1:12 p.m. with masks and handguns. They fled out the front door of the bank with an unknown amount of money — but didn't get far before they were apprehended by Philadelphia police on nearby Oakland Street.

The three suspects, all from Philadelphia and all in their 20s, and are in FBI custody. Their names have not been released, pending charges. Police recovered three firearms and the money from the robbery. No injuries were reported.

In 2007, Mustafa Ali gunned down and robbed two armored car guards outside a Wachovia Bank in the same area.

The two former Philadelphia police officers were servicing an ATM when Ali approached them and shot them.

▶ Authorities took another step Thursday to keep the Felton Supper Club, which was the scene of a shooting last month, permanently closed.

Nuisance in N. Philly shuttered

An order was approved Thursday that would keep the Felton Supper Club closed for a year. The bar has been closed since May 22, when nine people were shot outside — the latest in a series of violent incidents at the popular club. Officials said the owners did not object to yesterday's action. The state Liquor Control Board is also considering whether to suspend or revoke the facility's liquor license. METRO/SDL

Sex tape pass for Edwards

RALEIGH. A North Carolina judge ruled on Thursday that former U.S. Senator John Edwards should be spared further questioning about an alleged sex tape with his then-mistress pending the resolution of new criminal charges against him.

Superior Court Judge Carl Fox postponed a deposition set for Monday in which the former senator was to testify under oath about his role in the tape. The deposition is part of civil case brought by Edwards' former mistress, Rielle Hunter, against Edwards' former campaign aide, Andrew Young. REUTERS

Man claims to have shot Tupac

NEW YORK. New York police are investigating an online posting from a man who claims to have shot the late rapper Tupac Shakur during a robbery attempt in 1994, a police spokesman said on Thursday.

Convicted murderer Dexter Isaac claims to have been paid $2,500 by music manager James Rosemond to rob Shakur outside a Manhattan recording studio in November 1994, in which Shakur was shot five times. Shakur survived the shooting but was later murdered in an unsolved 1996 shooting in Las Vegas.

Isaac is currently serving a life sentence for charges including murder, fraud and robbery. REUTERS

Rep.'s electile dysfunction: Weiner quits the Congress

▶ Weiner saying goodbye.

Two weeks after sex scandal breaks, Weiner limps out ◗ Some say he was abandoned by the Democrats

After days of stubborn refusal to give up his seat amid scandal, Rep. Anthony Weiner resigned from office on Thursday, costing the Democratic party one of its most outspoken voices.

In the crowded senior center in Sheepshead Bay, New York, where Weiner first began his political career 20 years ago, the shamed congressman took the stage alone to end a weeks-long scandal.

"I had hoped to be able to continue the work that the citizens of my district had elected me to do," Weiner said. "Unfortunately, the distraction that I have created has made that impossible."

The disgraced Democrat apologized to his neighbors, constituents and his wife, Huma Abedin, who was conspicuously absent from his brief, five-minute speech. He thanked her for standing by him.

A staff member from "The Howard Stern Show" was on-site for max absurdity.

- Benjy Bronk, 39, repeatedly interrupted Weiner's resignation with questions like "Are you really seven inches when aroused?" until security removed him.
- Outside, Bronk apologized: "I was a d—, but I had to do it. I'm going to treatment."

New terror leader for al Qaeda, but US doesn't mind

Al Qaeda's long-serving number two, Egyptian Ayman al-Zawahri, has taken over the leadership after the killing of Osama bin Laden, the group said on Islamist sites on Thursday.

Bin Laden's lieutenant and the brains behind much of al Qaeda's strategy, Zawahri vowed this month to press ahead with its campaign against the United States and its allies.

The bespectacled Zawahri had been seen as bin Laden's most likely successor after the man held responsible for the September 11, 2001, attacks in New York and Washington was shot dead by U.S. commandos in Pakistan 45 days ago.

Zawahri's whereabouts are unknown, although he has long been thought to be hiding along the border between Afghanistan and Pakistan. REUTERS

The United States is offering a $25 million reward for any information leading to the capture or conviction of Ayman al-Zawahri.

Who cares?

The U.S. State Department doesn't seem terribly concerned that the terror group has chosen a new leader.

▶ "Frankly, it barely matters who runs al Qaeda, because al Qaeda is a bankrupt ideology," State Department spokesperson Victoria Nuland said at a briefing.

▶ "The peaceful movements for change around the world have done far more for Muslim people than al Qaeda has ever produced," she added. REUTERS

Study: 90% of kids not exercising

WASHINGTON. About 90 percent of all U.S. high school students aren't getting enough exercise, a new study said, indicating that a lack of activity is exacerbating the increase in childhood obesity and diabetes.

About half of the students did muscle-strengthening exercises for the recommended three or more days a week, according to the study in the Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

Only 15 percent of students engaged in aerobic activity for at least an hour, seven days a week, as recommended. Girls, older students, and obese students were the most likely to fall short of meeting U.S. guidelines. BLOOMBERG

Skinny guys live longer

CAMBRIDGE. Men with lean physiques at age 18 have a lower chance of dying from cancer later in life than those who are obese at that age, a study of Harvard alumni suggests.

Men with the lowest body mass index at age 18 were 35 percent less likely to die from cancer than those with the highest BMIs, according to the study by British and American researchers. BLOOMBERG

Insider arts agenda

What the people who make Philly's arts scene happen think you should check out this summer

Welcome!

What's hot in Philly this summer?

There's a little problem about the arts guides that newspapers put out every season: They're written by people who work at newspapers. Not a bad group, but also not the most cultured (or stylish, for that matter). So we did you a favor this time and went straight to Philly's artists, curators, actors, directors and other out-and-about people for their summer picks. Here's what the experts suggest you check out.

MONICA WEYMOUTH

▶ "Queen of All Weapons" opens at the Papermill Theater

Some 'Hella Fresh' tips

Who: Hella Fresh Theater founder John Rosenberg is getting ready to stage his second show of 2011, "Queen of All Weapons" (July 9-31, www.queenofallweapons.com).
What he's seeing: "Top of my list this summer is seeing Tommy Davidson performing at the Helium Comedy Club in July. I have never been to the club, and am thinking, what better comedian to see than one of the gods from 'In Living Color?'"

Who: Rachel Dukeman, managing director of Plays & Players Theater, took some time away from her latest production, "Gibraltar " (running through Saturday) to enlighten us.
What she's seeing: ART/GAGE at Philadelphia's Magic Gardens on July 30: "They close down the 1000 block of South Street and have a block party that sees over 500 people, and over 12 performing groups will take the stage," she tells us.
Also on her list: "Sam-Gam BAM!," a classical and experimental American and South Indian Dance showcase (through June 25 at the Mandell Theater); and Quince Productions' GayFest! theater festival (Aug. 11-28 at the Shubin Theatre).

Who: Katherine Blanchard — the Penn Museum's Near East section keeper — surfaced from the museum's storage earlier this week to hook us up. Every Wednesday this summer, check out the Penn Museum Summer Night happy hour series from 5-8 p.m.
What she's seeing: "The Mercer Museum is opening its new wing this weekend. It's only in Doylestown, totally just off the old R5 train line, and it's the one place I take all my out-of-town guests. If you haven't been to see Fonthill, the Moravian Tile Works or Henry Mercer's collection, now is a great time to do so."

Who: Stephanie Reyer is the vice president of exhibitions at the National Constitution Center, where "Discover the Real George Washington: New Views from Mount Vernon" opens July 1.
What she's seeing: "Something that is always on my arts agenda is Art After 5 at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. I love how it feels like you have the museum to yourself. Also, as a design school graduate (Cooper Union), I'm excited to see 'Collab: Four Decades of Giving Modern and Contemporary Design' at the Perelman building. Philadelphia is incredibly rich in design culture."

▶ Stop by Space 1026 (1026 Arch St.) on July 1, 7-10 p.m., for Chelsea Coon and Emily Bowser's opening reception.

Free jokes? Yes, please

Who: Andrew Jeffrey Wright is a founding member of Space 1026 Gallery, where — judging by the awesome to-do list he put together for us — you should find yourself on July 1 for First Friday.
What he's seeing: "Every Monday night at the Urban Saloon there is a fun open mic comedy night called 'Laughs on Fairmount' hosted by Carolyn Busa and Mary Radzinski. I love live free jokes!"

Wright also wants you to see: His favorite Philly rock band, Sweatheart; dance crew Club Lyfestile performing on the 1600 block of South Lawrence Street this Saturday; and "Joke Summer School," a kids program directed by Ted Passon premiering this summer on Comcast On Demand's Activity TV.

Yup, George's dentures are on display at the Constitution Center.

Insider arts agenda

Who: As the director of the Mural Arts Program, Jane Golden gets to work with some very cool artists.
What she's seeing: "I'm a big fan of Questlove and the Roots ever since he narrated a Mural Arts audio guide this year, so I'm excited to hear them play on the Ben Franklin Parkway as part of Wawa Welcome America on July 4. The concert sounds like it's going to be amazing, with something for everyone."

If you want to learn more about the Albert M. Greenfield African American Iconic Images Collection (which Questlove narrated) visit www.muralarts.org for info about tours by trolley, bike, Segway and foot this summer.

Who: Katherine Haas is an assistant curator at the Rosenbach Museum & Library, where she recently curated "The Civil War Begins," which is on view through July 17.
What she's seeing: "I am excited about the Pennsylvania Civil War Road Show, which is a traveling exhibit that will be setting up in Franklin Square over July 4 weekend. In addition to the exhibit there will be living history demonstrations, storytelling, and other great programming. I'm planning to go with my kids and possibly with some out-of-town guests."

magical Shakespeare in Clark Park. This year, they're presenting "Much Ado About Nothing" — something that made plenty of the to-do lists of their fellow artists.

What she's seeing: The Friday night jazz series in Cedar Park: "It's this adorable little park right near Dock Street, and every Friday night around 7 they have free jazz there," Moller tells us. Also on her list? The Naked Bike Ride, which she hints may star some of her Clark Park musicians in unexpected ways.

▶ Robert Dubac stars in Act II's "The Male Intellect."

Pack your beach towel

Who: Actor Tony Braithwaite is a favorite at Act II Playhouse and will star in their production of "My Fairy Lady" next season. This summer, you can catch Act II's "The Male Intellect" (running July 6-31).

What he's seeing: "A must-see for me is a short drive from Center City Philly to see Jerry Seinfeld in A.C. on Aug. 13. Jerry is one of the few sitcom stars who ever gave up Hollywood to return to his roots as a stand-up comic. I consider paying top dollar to see him perform live as tuition money, because watching him is like attending a master class in How to Perform Comedy. No one is better."

Who: Julien Robson is the curator of contemporary art at PAFA, where "Urbanism: Reimagining the Lived Environment" opens July 2 and will run through Sept. 4.

What he's seeing: "What caught my attention recently is the show 'Think Global 2,' which runs at the Pentimenti Gallery until July 9. The show is a great advert for Philadelphia artists. It revolves around a theme of 'the world we live in today, and the issues we are all facing,' and includes, among others, a collaborative and interactive project by Linda Brenner and Judy Gelles called 'Hopes and Fears,' and fascinating drawings by Laura Ledbetter, where balanced relationships teeter on the verge of collapse. Continuing the theme of our relationship to our world, Diane Burko's show at the Locks Gallery — opening in July — will provide another opportunity to engage with this artist's tough but beautiful photographs that bring us face to face with the effects of global warming."

Who: Timothy Rub is the George D. Widener director and CEO of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. The PMA's "Rembrandt and the Face of Jesus" runs Aug. 3 through Oct. 30.

What he's seeing: Like plenty of people we talked to, a trip to the Institute of Contemporary Art is in order: "I'm looking forward not to the opening of a new exhibition, but to taking a long look again at one that's been up for a few months at the ICA and will be here until Aug. 7. 'Sheila Hicks: 50 Years' is a succinct and beautifully installed survey of the work of one of this country's great artists. Hicks is a magician with fiber, one whose mastery of materials and different media is employed in the service of a distinctive vision. She's adept at working in different techniques and at different scales, from the intimate to the monumental. Best of all, she makes beautiful and truly memorable things. Don't miss this show!"

Classical programs at the Mann Center
The open-air Fairmount Park venue is truly one of the gems of the summer arts scene. This year, it has an impressive classical program lined up: The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra (July 9 and 10); The Russian National Orchestra (July 27, 28 and 29) and, of course, the Philadelphia Orchestra (June 28, 29 and 30). June 30 features the Beatles' "Abbey Road."

Summer at the Painted Bride
The Bride's usual programming resumes in the fall with highlights such as the Creole Choir of Cuba (tickets go on sale August 2). But until then, stop by the Old City venue for the Fourth Wall Arts Salon on July 23, a night that will feature hip-hop artist Kuf Knotz and Khalil Munir's dance theater.

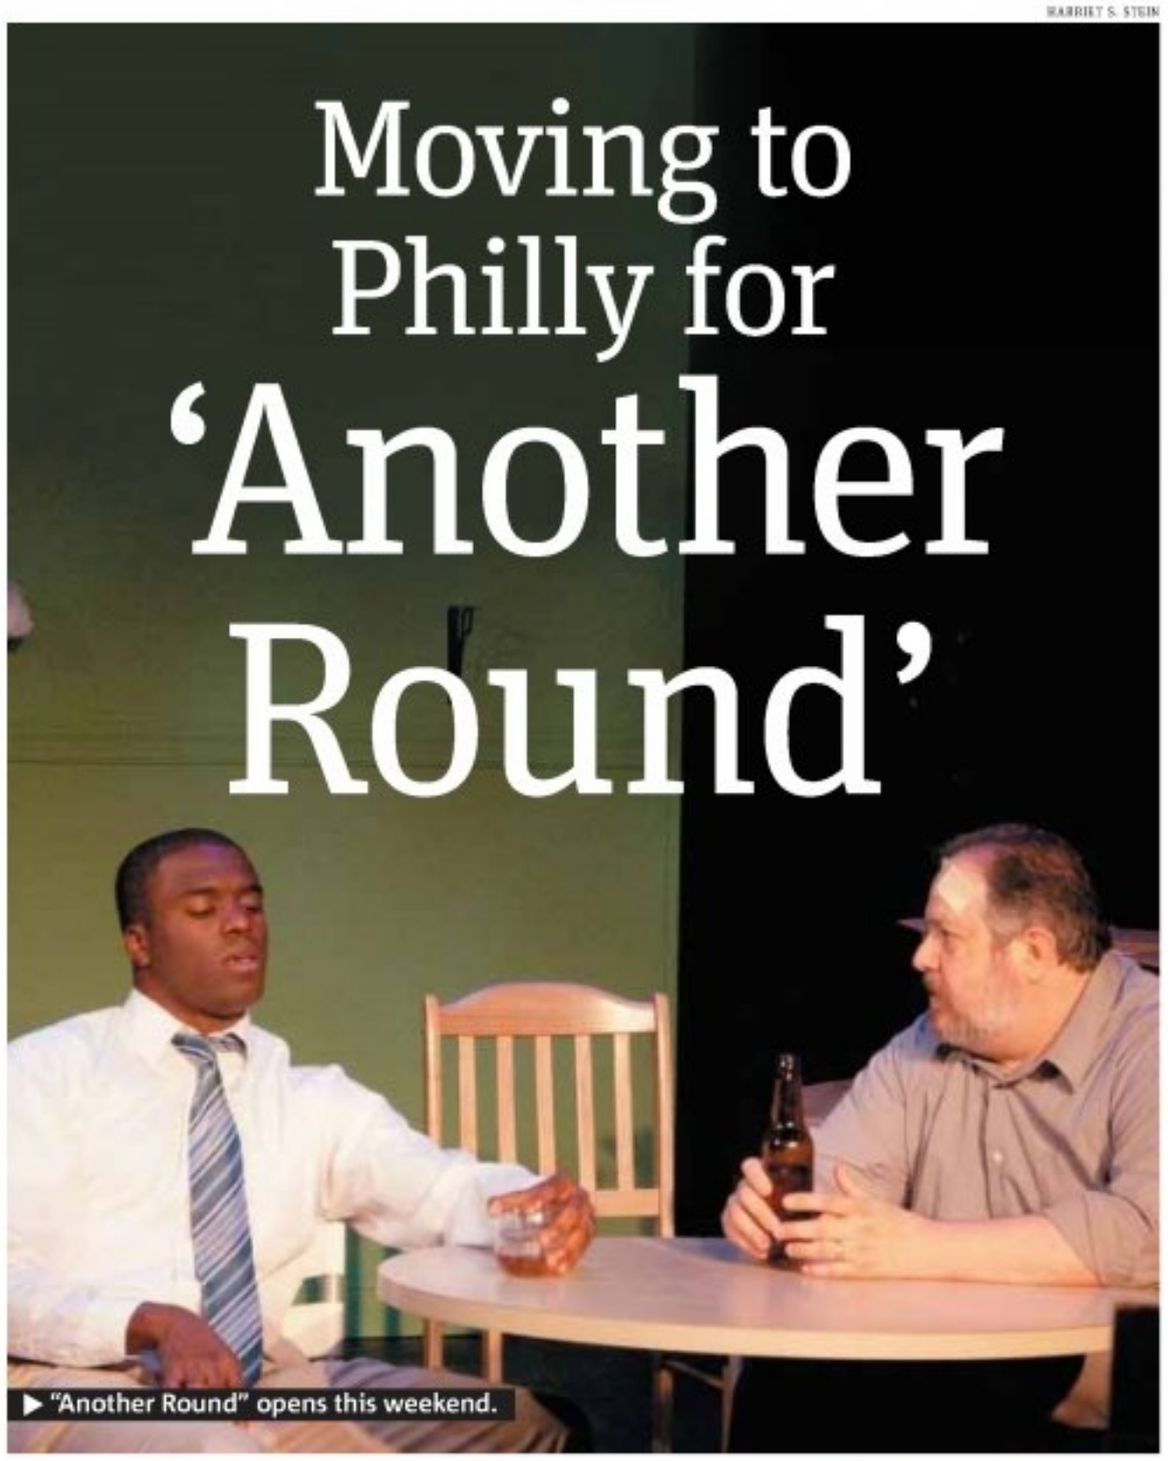
Moving to Philly for ‘Another Round’



▶ "Another Round" opens this weekend.

J. Adam Russell was a cop in Pittsburgh, a struggling screenwriter in LA and now a playwright ready to stage his debut in Philly

When J. Adam Russell was a cop in Pittsburgh, he constantly daydreamed about becoming a writer. In the 10 years since, that dream has led him to Carnegie Mellon University, Hollywood and, now, Philly.

His self-produced Philadelphia debut brings that wild career path full circle: "Another Round" — opening this weekend at Walnut Studio 5 — is Russell's first and only work based on his experiences as a police officer. Directed by Chelsea Sanz, the play centers on a Pittsburgh police-friendly bar, where a white officer seeks refuge after shooting a black citizen.

"[Police shootings] are so common every summer in this country. Unfortunately, the person that is shot is usually a minority, and the person who is firing the weapon is usually not a minority," says Russell, who is African American. "But when I was a cop, I saw the other side of it: It's easy to think you see a weapon, especially when you know cops that were killed at routine traffic stops."

After graduating from the MFA playwriting program at Carnegie Mellon, Russell moved to L.A. with the hopes of writing for film and television. He admits he didn't get much further than working in the legal department at MGM. But now he's trying his luck in a city where you can actually see your scripts in action, rather than linger in a desk drawer. ("Another Round" was a regional winner at the American College Theater Festival more than five years ago.)

You can still produce theater on the cheap in Philly: Russell raised under $10,000 for this show. "I don't know the Philly market that well yet. I'm learning every day," he says. "That's my whole story in this business: I don't know what I'm doing, but I do it anyway."

West Oak Lane is sounding good

The Jazz and Arts Festival takes over Ogontz Avenue all weekend
What acts you don't want to miss Plus, other hot June tickets

After last year's stubborn embrace of the "Jazz" portion of its name, the West Oak Lane Jazz and Arts Festival has reopened its arms to the funk and R&B headliners that get the crowds moving. For its eighth year, the festival's schedule includes legendary diva Chaka Khan and, making a stop on their Men of Soul tour, smooth crooners Jeffrey Osborne, Peabo Bryson, Freddie Jackson and Howard Hewett. But there's still plenty of great jazz to be heard on the main stages:

FRIDAY:

The opening evening's schedule is highlighted by the ferociously funky Urban Guerilla Orchestra and by the explosive Latin sounds of Puerto Rican-born percussionist-bandleader Edgardo Cintron's ensemble.

SHAUN BRADY
shaun.brady@metro.us

SATURDAY:

One stage will largely be occupied all day by the aforementioned Men of Soul, with a break in the middle for Philly fusion bassist Gerald Veasley. The other will feature local bass mentor Mike Boone leading an afternoon set, with the dinner hours offering fest regular Roy Ayers and up-and-coming vocalist Gregory Porter.

SUNDAY:

The don't-miss set of the festival is a homecoming appearance by in-demand bass great and Philly native Christian McBride, leading his acoustic Inside Straight quintet and preceded by fest artistic director Warren Oree's Philadelphia Freedom Jazz Orchestra. On the other stage, local sax legend Bootsie Barnes will warm things up for Beyonce's saxophonist of choice, Tia Fuller.

Roy Ayers plays Saturday at 4:15 p.m.

Tia Fuller plays Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Christian McBride plays Sunday at 3:45 p.m.

A New York state of mind

Hooray for Earth were once a Boston band A fateful move to the Big Apple helped singer Noel Heroux feel more free Who knows how comfy they'll get in Philly

DREW INKIS

Hooray for Earth continue their journey south this weekend with a stop in Philly.

Shortly after forming in Boston in 2006, Hooray for Earth's creative compass, Noel Heroux, pointed his sights south and moved to NYC. But while the band may have separated geographically, Heroux's vision of their sound became clearer than ever.

"I love Boston, but as a place to live it was bad for me," says Heroux. "I was bubbling myself off from the rest of the world, and I really wasn't doing anything I liked. I was making music, but it was purely for internal, tumultuous reasons."

Once known as a spacey-noise rock band, many longtime fans are surprised at H4E's electronic sonic evolution. But according to Heroux, it's wasn't necessarily a change of scenery that brought it on, it was a change in mood.

"When I moved, I was at ease and immediately felt comfortable. I took a year and my attitude evened out," he says. "I was happy thinking about what I wanted to do instead of getting caught up in depression."

On Hooray for Earth's recent release, "True Loves," Heroux's lyrics do seem more positive, but the music still conjures an ethereal darkness. Though it's already been classified as a retro '80s synth-pop record, the glorified production and execution make it better fit for the future and a post-apocalyptic party.

"The music came back in a way that I was happy with," says Heroux. "I didn't like the same sound. My mind opened up and I was excited to do new things."

H4E is a guitar band!

While the sound is big enough to fill an arena, "True Loves" was actually made in a bedroom. Fleshed out with the band and producer Chris Coady (Beach House, Grizzly Bear, TV on the Radio), the sleek result is great for headphone listening and prime for the next wave of the space age. Just don't call it synth-pop.

"There are tons of guitars," notes Heroux. "I find it funny that we are considered a synth-pop band. We are largely based around guitars, and I think a lot of what people think are synths are actually modulated, low-tuned and out-of-tune guitars. I also did so much vocal sampling and manipulation that I think it just comes across that way."

The crown Jewell in the kingdom of the 'Minor Key'

Singer on why not every song needs to be in a major key How she became the 'Queen' of a certain sound

Elvis Presley was the King of Rock 'n' Roll, Michael Jackson was the King of Pop, Aretha Franklin is the Queen of Soul and now let it be known that Eilen Jewell is "Queen of the Minor Key," as the title of her new album so boldly declares.

"It started off as a little, offhand remark that a musician friend of ours said," she says. "We were doing a show together and in announcing me, he mentioned something like, 'Ladies and gentlemen, the Queen of the Minor Key,' and he kind of snickered."

Jewell prefers to protect the identity of her coronator: "He's so nice he'd probably be like, 'Oh, that breaks my heart that you thought I was making fun of you,' but he totally was!"

The songs on the new album range in style from roots rock to country to '50s-style raveups, but most have that minor key sound and a theme of characters who don't quite connect.

"In sadness and in longing and in failing to connect, there's a lot of dynamic," says Jewell. "I feel like happiness is a complete thing, and everything's all settled — but if there's unhappiness, then ... that's where I find it to be kind of charged with energy."

It is this studied appreciation that at times gives "Queen" an upbeat spark, and makes the moments where she does hit major chords really shine.

"I don't like to wallow in misery," says Jewell, "but at the same time, I do find a lot of beauty in it."

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return on Monday

So, how do we apply to be Ryan Reynolds?

Today's "what world do you people live in?!" moment is brought to you by Blake Lively, who co-stars in "Green Lantern" this weekend with Ryan Reynolds.

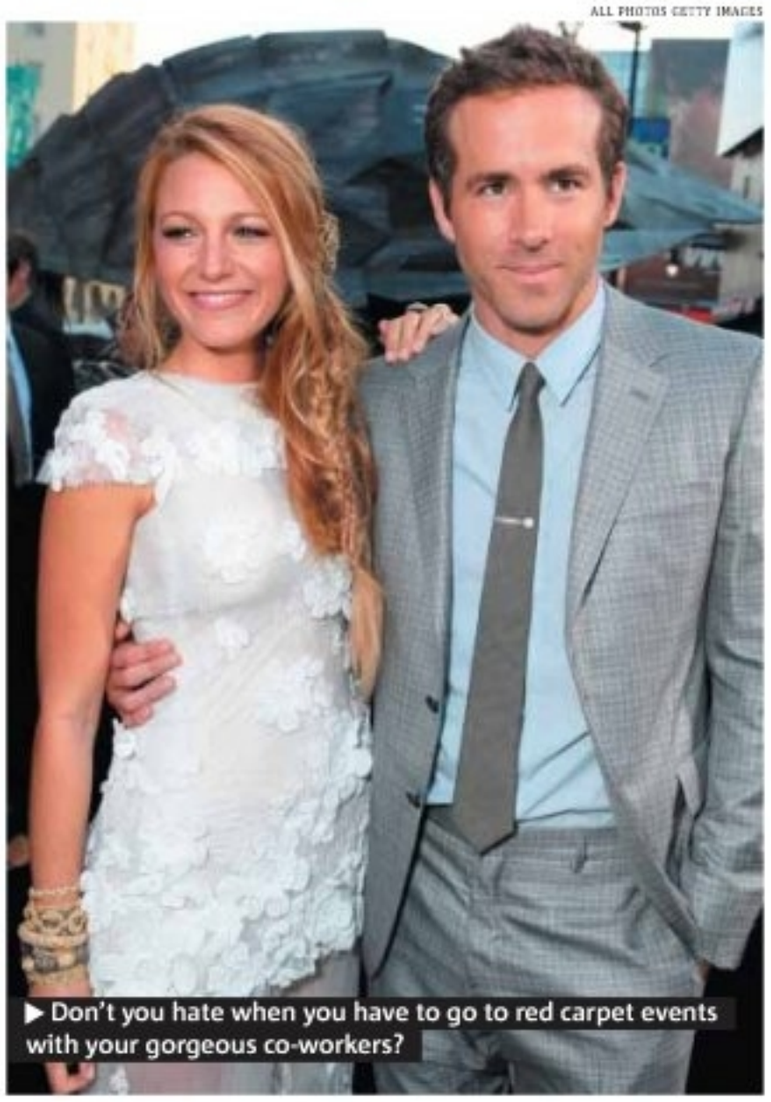
How did the actress try to "sabotage" her super-fit leading man? Take it away, Blake: "I would cook for the entire crew and I would try to lure him into eating some of the treats," she tells UsMagazine.com. "Cupcake lollipops, fresh candies, homemade caramel and marshmallows covered in chocolate — stuff like that."

The horror! And how do you feel about it, Blake? "I am a horrible person!"

We don't even care if she's joking. Does she have any idea — any at all — how happy some free stale doughnuts can make most workplaces? And to have someone even a fraction as hot as Blake Lively serving them?

Blake, we hope there's a newsroom in your near, unfortunate future.

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES



Don't you hate when you have to go to red carpet events with your gorgeous co-workers?

Hugh Hefner's revenge

Well, this is embarrassing: Crystal Harris is on the cover of the July Playboy wearing not much more than her now-ex's silk robe. It's too late to change the "Introducing Crystal Hefner" headline, so what did Hef do? Strategically slapped a big "Runaway bride in this issue!" sticker on her. A little awkward, sure, but in the realm of naked-ex revenge pictures, it's actually pretty tasteful.

Second life for Gaga's dress

Lady Gaga

Remember the "meat dress" Lady Gaga wore to the MTV Video Music Awards last year? It's now on display at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, although not before some preservation work. "The dress was kept in a meat locker until the treatment was ready to begin," the Hall said in a statement to CNN.com. "It was then placed in a vat of chemicals and, while still pliable, was put on a body form and allowed to dry." Admittedly, we almost like it in zombie form.

Talking points

Aniston getting serious

Things are reportedly moving fast for Jennifer Aniston and her rumored new boyfriend, Justin Theroux, according to Us Weekly. "He's living at her place in L.A.," a source says. "And she's introducing him as her boyfriend." Theroux also has an apartment in New York, which he'd shared with his girlfriend of 14 years, costume designer Heidi Bivens, until Bivens moved out last weekend, sources say. Previously, Theroux had usually stayed at the Chateau Marmont when in Los Angeles.

Christina Aguilera

Christina on her divorce

Christina Aguilera is opening up about her recent divorce, telling W Magazine that she and ex-husband Jordan Bratman share the blame for their marriage ending. "At one time or another we were both not angels," Aguilera says. "It got to a point where our life at home was reminding me of my own childhood. I will not have my son grow up in a tension-filled home." And the singer, who's no stranger to life in the public eye, knew it wouldn't be an easy process: "I knew there would be a negative reaction in the press to my divorce, but I am not going to live my life because of something someone might say."

Be nice to Britney!

Justin Timberlake is coming to ex-girlfriend Britney Spears' defense after the "Femme Fatale" singer has been hit with a deluge of criticism online for her current dance moves. "This thing that happens online bothers me — these anonymous [commentators]," he tells Playboy. "People think they can say anything and it doesn't matter to people. I'd love to see the people who comment about Britney online say those things to her face, because they couldn't."

Mr. Carrey's peeping penguins

The 49-year-old comedian returns to the antics that made him famous His latest film is about inheriting six waddling creatures

BARRY WETCHER

As Mr. Thomas Popper, Jim Carrey enjoys a light dinner with his new friends.

After years of making a fortune off of his elastic face, Jim Carrey is still finding new ways to manipulate it — though not all of them are intentional. "My face kind of operates on its own nowadays. It just kind of does what it wants to do. Sometimes it's appropriate and sometimes it's not," he says. "Sometimes in the editing room, we'll go, 'That's not human. Eyebrows aren't supposed to do that. That's going to distract people, flat out.'"

After a few live-action roles that required less facial manipulation, Carrey returns to the type of mugging that made him famous in his latest, "Mr. Popper's Penguins," which pits his neat-freak corporate real estate broker against six new waddling house guests — played by a mix of animatronics, CGI stand-ins and real, live penguins. The working environment was more than a little challenging.

"The set was so cold that I was fighting pneumonia the entire time," he says. "I'm Canadian. I have a little background with that."

Acting challenges aside, Carrey cops to an affinity for his flightless co-stars: "I think that's why we love penguins, because they don't belong anywhere," he says. "They're wobbly and vulnerable, and they're not really fish and they're not really birds, and that's how I feel."

A return to more physical comedy also meant a return to childhood for the 49-year-old actor. "I find I'm still doing things and little tricks and fun things that I created when I was 10 years old," he says. "The play you do when you're a kid is so super-important. I'm so lucky that my life didn't get turned upside down till I was 11, because I had a lot of great play and a lot of creativity that still comes into play for me."

"They're wobbly and vulnerable, and they're not really fish and they're not really birds, and that's how I feel."
CARREY, ON PENGUINS

Twitter happy

Since joining Twitter last year, the actor has become an intense user, interacting actively with his more than 3 million followers. Here are some recent postings:

- @JimCarrey Yesterday i tried to take a pic of the paparazzi that i have inherited here in NY but i left the lens cap on. Guess that's why they're them and i'm me.
- @JimCarrey My mother told me that if i didn't stop touching the CN Tower everyone in Canada would go blind.

'Stephen Sondheim's Company with the New York Philharmonic'

Directors: Harold Prince

Stars: Neil Patrick Harris, Stephen Colbert, Jon Cryer, Christina Hendricks, Martha Plimpton
Grade: ●●●○○

Let June 2011 be known as the month that Neil Patrick Harris made Broadway cool. OK, maybe that's a little extreme, but at least it could be known as the month that Harris cemented himself as the ambassador of Broadway to Hollywood, with his winning role as host of the Tonys and his star turn in the Stephen Sondheim musical, "Company," which is in theaters this weekend for a limited run. The material is a little dated, but Harris brings some of his Barney from "How I Met Your Mother" to the role of Bobby, a single man with marriage-phobia who's bearing witness to the strained and strange relationships of his peers. At two and a half hours, it's an investment to watch a filmed play, but the bounty of co-stars and Harris' performance keep it mostly entertaining.

PAT HEALY

'Lantern' is a bit dim

Schlocky, witless script tears down this visually enjoyable comic-book adaptation Even Ryan Reynolds can't save this film

WARNER BROS. PICTURES

▶ Blake Lively and Ryan Reynolds co-star in "Green Lantern."

"Don't believe the hype" could be the theme song of this summer's tentpole releases. Everyone was chomping at the bit to see "Green Lantern," but like certain other summer releases before it (yeah, you, "Pirates"), the expectations far outmatched the final product.

The blame lies squarely on the four screenwriters who adapted the less-widely known comic book to the screen. The film fails to be funny when it's trying to be; and when it wants to be serious, it so heavily borrowed from the likes of old-school "Star Trek" that it feels like a half-baked parody. And for someone who is not a regular sci-fi fan, watching magenta-skinned alien Sinestro gravely explain the green lantern power ring is just, well — sorry, it's hilarious.

Poor Ryan Reynolds. He really does try to save this thing playing Green Lantern Hal Jordan. And you get the sense that he could if the script was just a bit more clever, but his scenes with love interest Carol Ferris (played on autopilot by Blake Lively) are so devoid of chemistry, and the lines are so obviously lifted from thousands of movies before it, that it is impossible to care about them as characters.

The only real treat here is the special effects, which make use of 3-D technology in a way that many other 3-D releases have failed to do. Evil enemy Parallax is one of the spookiest henchmen we've seen in a while, and if you're not too picky about, you know, storyline — or anything more meaningful than cool things to look at — this will definitely fit the bill.

Big ideas for a 'Small Kitchen'

Cooking on your own for the first time? Fear not! Authors will teach you everything you need to know

If the only things you know how to make are Ramen and reservations, Cara Eisenpress and Phoebe Lapine — authors of "In the Small Kitchen" — want you to know that you, too, can become a great chef. Here, the bloggers-turned-authors offer some practical primers for cooking in the real world.

Q&A: Essentials

What kitchen product can't you live without?

- Phoebe: [A] Dutch oven. [You can] use it for techniques, like baking, that you're not necessarily supposed to use it for.
- Cara: A handheld mixer. When you don't have a stand mixer, they're great.

What should all newbie cooks keep in their fridge?

Phoebe: Eggs, eggs and more eggs. Eggs [are] something that we cook on a daily basis, even as slightly more able-bodied chefs than we were right when we graduated college.

Cara: The other thing I always have in my fridge is a loaf of bread. You'll end up wasting money and bread if you keep it out [and] let it mold.

What one dish should every novice chef learn to make?

Cara: A great baked meat dish. You get a ton of flavor, especially in proportion to the amount of work you've done.

Phoebe: The nice thing about those dishes and stews is that they allow you to use cheaper cuts of meat.

Is there a way to instill a love of cooking into those who just aren't looking forward to cooking on their own for the first time?

Cara: Try and imitate restaurant dishes. That can be a really convincing way to show somebody who already likes to eat that it can be fun to cook.

Phoebe: Making cooking into a social experience [can help], especially if part of their dread is failure — just meet up with someone a little bit more experienced.

Cara: We really made a point in our book of making everything accessible. We wanted to make sure that people didn't experience overwhelming failure in the kitchen, because that's just utterly discouraging.

Provencal baked chicken

FOR THE FULL INTERVIEW AND RECIPE TIPS, VISIT WWW.METRO.US/FOOD

Ingredients

- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 5 dried dates, pitted and chopped (about ¼ cup)
- 3 tablespoons chopped pitted Kalamata olives
- 2 bay leaves
- 3 tablespoons garlic, crushed, minced with 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons dried oregano, or 2 tablespoons fresh oregano
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 3 pounds bone-in, skin-on chicken thighs, preferably organic
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced
- 4 plum tomatoes, each cut into six wedges
- 3 tablespoons packed light brown sugar
- ¼ cup dry white wine
- 2 tablespoons minced fresh parsley (optional)

Directions

1. Combine the vinegar, olive oil, dates, olives, bay leaves, garlic, oregano and black pepper to taste in a large container with a lid. Add the chicken and toss well to coat. Let this sit overnight in the fridge (or at least six hours).
2. Preheat the oven to 350°F.
3. Arrange the chicken in one layer in a casserole dish or baking pan. Pour all the marinade from the container over the chicken. Scatter the onion slices between the chicken pieces, and wedge the tomatoes into crevices around the pan. Sprinkle each piece of chicken with some of the brown sugar; then evenly pour the wine around the dish and over the chicken. Bake for an hour, or until the chicken's juices run clear, the tomatoes are browned and the onions are soft.
4. Sprinkle fresh parsley over the chicken and transfer to a platter if you're not serving it in the baking dish.
5. Pour the juices from the pan into a small serving bowl and pass this sauce with the chicken.

Pleading the fifth, for now

Kendrick enjoying career-low ERA ◗ Holding down fifth spot in Phillies rotation ◗ Remembers when Cliff Lee news broke ◗ Never complained

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Kendrick picked up his fourth win Wednesday afternoon against Florida.

Kyle Kendrick was watching "Monday Night Football" at his home in the Seattle area when the news flashed across the bottom of his television screen.

THE PHILLIES HAVE AGREED TO TERMS WITH FREE AGENT PITCHER CLIFF LEE.

Kendrick could have been annoyed on that Dec. 13 night, since that meant his status was up in the air. With the addition of Lee, would there even be room on the roster for Kendrick?

But the right-hander never allowed himself to think like that.

Kendrick's ERA in 18 games this season, including five starts. Opponents are hitting just .248 against him.

"I said to myself, 'Wow, we're going to be really good,'" Kendrick said. "I thought, 'I'll probably be in the 'pen and starting if something happens, I'll be ready to go.' That's kind of what I thought."

Kendrick has had flashes of brilliance in his short stint in the majors. He's struggled at times, including a trip down to Triple-A. Yet he's been like a gnat — he just won't go away.

On TV Friday
Phillies at Seattle, 10:10 p.m. (CSN)

On Wednesday, in the first game of a day-night doubleheader against the Marlins, Kendrick pitched seven strong innings and gave up just one earned run. Was there something more he needed to prove to pitching coach Rich Dubee and Phils manager Charlie Manuel?

"No, not at all," Kendrick said. "It's really just a matter of proving it to myself each time out. I want to pitch well, hit my spots and be as consistent as possible."

Kendrick (4-4) has surrendered one run in his last 10 innings. Not too bad for a fifth starter.

"You've just got to keep working," Kendrick said. "That's what I'm doing every start and every day in between."

3 things we saw at the park

- Phillies 3, Marlins 0
- Up next: at Seattle, Friday, 10:10 p.m. Saturday, 10:10 p.m.

1 Speaking of Cliff Lee ... The ace lefty barely broke a sweat Thursday as he allowed no runs on two hits in a complete-game shutout. Lee (7-5) briefly flirted with a no-hitter — until Mike Stanton singled with two outs in the fifth — and helped himself out with an RBI double. After struggling in May — by his standards — Lee has only allowed one run in his last 24 innings. And Lee's 111 strikeouts are second only to teammate Roy Halladay in the entire majors.

2 Rest for the weary. Charlie Manuel gave Chase Utley a much-needed breather, inserting Michael Martinez into the starting lineup. Utley is 8-for-19 since June 11, with a reel of Web gems at second base. Martinez went 1-for-4 in his place.

3 Walking papers? Every time that bullpen door swings open and J.C. Romero appears, Phillies fans cringe. Not anymore. The struggling left-handed reliever was designated for assignment after Thursday's game and replaced with Vance Worley. Romero, making $1.35 million this season, has the option not to accept the assignment.

Kruk getting call to Wall

John Kruk will be formally inducted into the Phillies Wall of Fame on Aug. 12. A bronze plaque will be hung in the Memory Lane section of Ashburn Alley.

Kruk was a career .309 for the Phillies, and he is one of just six Phillies with an on-base percentage of .400 or higher.

Mavericks celebrate title with parade

Dirk Nowitzki was ready for his close-up.

The Finals MVP celebrated with an estimated 250,000 Mavericks fans Thursday in downtown Dallas. Team staffers, players, coaches and entertainer Jamie Foxx led the parade that ended at American Airlines Arena with a 90-minute ceremony.

"It's been an amazing ride, an amazing journey," Nowitzki told the crowd. "There's been a lot of ups, a lot of downs. This is the top of the iceberg and it feels absolutely amazing."

The championship was the first for the Mavericks in 31 seasons — and the first for Nowitzki in his 13 years. METRO

Union headed to hostile Vancouver

Club looks to extend unbeaten streak Jump ahead of NY in Eastern Conference Whitecaps in basement

The Union can expect a riotous crowd. No, seriously.

The club is looking to extend its four-match unbeaten streak (two wins, two draws) and jump ahead of New York atop the Eastern Conference standings. To achieve that, they'll have to endure a 3,000-mile journey to Vancouver — the same city that saw 150 hospitalized Wednesday night after its beloved Canucks dropped Game 7 of the Stanley Cup finals.

"The opening minutes on the road, in a tough place to play, are so important," Danny Mwange told philadelphiaunion.com. "The coaching staff has stressed that to us."

On TV Saturday

Union at Vancouver, 10 p.m. (CSN)

Vancouver is coming off a 2-2 draw last week in Seattle, and the Whitecaps rank last in the Western Conference with 11 points. When the two squads met on March 26, the Union earned a 1-0 victory.

"No one in this league is going to give you points. It'll be a good fight," Sheanon Williams said.

FRED BEANS REPEATS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

1 DAY ONLY!
SAT. JUNE 18TH
CALL 1-866-920-9612

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and Founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, June 18th at 9:30AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $1995. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community ready for the summer road-trip season.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 7 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Automotive Group in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, GMC, and Saab vehicles. Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Automotive Group's extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies for this sale.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $1995, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interests."

Customers are encouraged to arrive as early as 9:00AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that is right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of June 17th after close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Automotive Group has $10,000,000 in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less than perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV home by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 7 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, June 18th, at 9:30AM. Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $1995. Customers are encouraged to arrive as early as 9:00AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $1995, will be posted no later than 9:30AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first come, first serve basis. The Fred Beans Automotive Group is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade-in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So, if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van or sport utility vehicle, do not miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

For more information about this sale and directions to our locations please visit us online at fredbeans.com or call 1-866-920-9612

Golf. U.S. Open

▶ McIlroy lines up a putt in Thursday's opening round.

Choke on this: McIlroy grabs early lead at Open

If Rory McIlroy is trying to shed the ghost of past chokes, he's off to a flying start. The 22-year-old from Northern Ireland shot a 6-under-par 65 and grabbed a three-shot lead in the opening round of the U.S. Open. McIlory, who famously fell apart at The Masters in April, finished with no bogeys and six birdies in his first 18 holes. Round 2 begins at 7 a.m. Friday at Congressional Country Club in Bethesda, Md. ● METRO

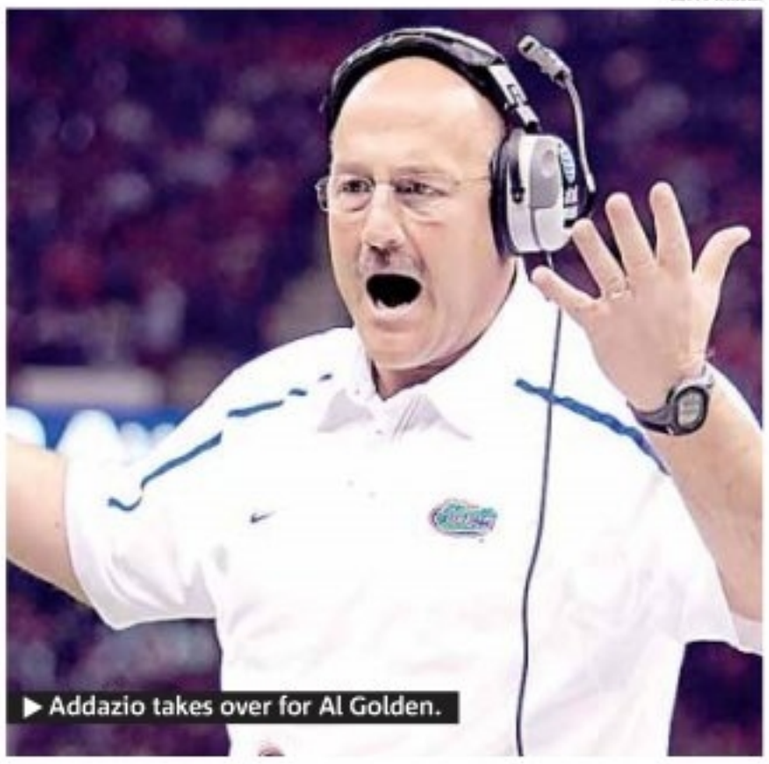
Ready for college football? Temple releases schedule

GETTY IMAGES



▶ Addazio takes over for Al Golden.

Temple football is still gaining respect, even without Al Golden.

The Owls' 2011 schedule includes a school-record seven nationally televised games. Temple opens its first season under coach Steve Addazio on Sept. 1 against Villanova in the third annual Mayor's Cup. The Mid-American Conference opener is slated for Sept. 10 at Akron.

Temple's toughest test should come Sept. 17, when it hosts Penn State at Lincoln Financial Field. They will also host Kent State, Army, Buffalo, Miami (Ohio) and Toledo. Tickets can be purchased at OwlsTix.com. METRO

▶ The Bruins will be honored with a victory parade Saturday in Boston.

Boston, the city of world champions

◗ Stanley Cup champion Bruins set for parade ◗ Red Sox switch start time ◗ Flyers, Eagles, Sixers waiting

Less than 12 hours after Wednesday's Stanley Cup-clinching win over Vancouver, the Bruins were back in Boston, still celebrating the franchise's first championship in 39 years.

"It's unbelievable. It's very exciting for the whole city, for us, for the whole organization," defenseman Zdeno Chara said.

Boston has scheduled a victory parade for Saturday at 11 a.m. The Red Sox switched Saturday's game against the Brewers from 1:10 to 7:10 p.m. Boston's four major pro teams have all won titles in the past seven seasons. The longest drought belongs to the Patriots, who won the 2005 Super Bowl.

Here, in Philadelphia, jealousy runs rampant. Sure, we still have fond memories of that glorious World Series parade in 2008.

But that's it.

The Eagles are waiting for their first Super Bowl title, while the Flyers have gone Cup-less since 1976, and the Sixers haven't won since 1983. METRO
